ANESTHESIOLOGY: QUALITY IMPROVEMENT/MAKING DECISIONS (Audio-Digest Foundation Anesthesiology Continuing Medical Education (CME) Book 51) Audio Digest

This is the written summary of the audio cme program that accompanies the paid subscription. Audio-Digest is providing this summary via Kindle as a service to our subscribers and as a sample to the general public.

Purpose: Audio-Digest Foundation CME/CE activities are designed to provide its learners -- physicians and other healthcare professionals -- with continuing education that will help identify clinical problems in their practice settings, provide content to help to solve those problems, and increase their application of knowledge to practice.

The goal of this program is to improve the quality of medical decisions. After hearing and assimilating this program, the clinician will be better able to:

- 1: Explain how the principles of the Toyota company can be applied to anesthesiology and the operating room.
- 2: Summarize the differences between classical and lean process improvement.
- 3: Describe typical challenges encountered when using lean process improvement methodology in anesthesiology and operative services.
- 4: Provide examples of disagreement between clinical experience and clinical trials, and compare human vs analytic decision-making strategies.
- 5: Discuss unique characteristics of human decision making when risk and uncertainty are involved, and identify potential strategies to improve decision making in ambiguous or uncertain environments.
